He Saw Hitler Body Burned

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, June 20 (INS)—Erich Kempke, Hitler's own chauffeur, told his American captors today he himself carried the Fuehrer's body to a funeral pyre and saw it consumed by flames. Kempke said he also witnessed the cremation of the mother of Hitler's two illegitimate children—Eva Braun.

Both had committed suicide, he said.

Hitler shot himself in the temple with a .30 caliber Luger automatic.

Eva used a .25 caliber pistol, said Kempke.

The only mourners as blazing gasoline consumed the bodies of [illegible] Propaganda Minister Goebbels, Martin Bormann, deputy leader of the Nazi party, and Kempke.

While the flames licked the corpses of the suicides, all three gave the Nazi salute.

This was on April 30—and came 48 hours after the union of Hitler and Eva had been legalized by a marriage ceremony, Kempke declared.

The funeral pyre was in a lot back of the Reichschancellery.

Hitler committed suicide inside his fortified bunker beneath the chancellery in Berlin, the chauffeur said.

He shot himself through the temple at 2:30 p. m.

Fraulein Braun shot herself through the heart, a few seconds later, Kempke asserted.

The pair were side by side on a sofa in the living room of the extensively-furnished hide-out. Both died instantly.

Kempke was Hitler's driver since 1936.

Kempke, according to U. S 101st Division officials, left Berlin on foot May 3.

According to Kempke, the Goebbels family mass suicide took place in Hitler's bunker on the night of May 1. SS Guards also poured gasoline on these bodies and set them on fire.

Kempke said that on the morning of May 2 he saw Bormann (all dead under Russian fire while at-

Rule Death Out At Poles' Trial

MOSCOW, June 20 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Nikolai Afanasiev, chief prosecutor of the 16 Poles on trial for subversive activities behind Russian lines, asked the court today for no death sentences but only imprisonment.

He told the Military Collegium of the Soviet Supreme Court in his summation death was not needed "because we are now living through days of joyous victory and the Soviet nation is mightier than it ever was."

Final evidence indicated Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, who resigned as head of the Polish exiled government in London when it failed to accept his recommendations for accord with the Lublin-Warsaw regime, had been kept in the dark concerning alleged anti-Russian activities of the Polish underground army. The commander of that group, Maj. Gen. L. Bronislaw Okulicki, is the chief defendant.

The courtroom was packed with Red army officers and representatives of nearly every phase of Soviet life. Among spectators were Mrs. Edwin Pauley, wife of the chief of the American representatives to the reparations commission, Francis Stevens, second secretary of the U. S. Embassy, also attended.

Testimony about Mikolajczyk came from Yergency Charnowski, chairman of the Polish Union of Democrats, as Polish groups sought an accord here in meetings with representatives of Russia, the United States and Great Britain.

Mikolajczyk is now in Moscow taking part in discussions looking toward reorganization of the present Provisional Polish Government in Warsaw.

Charnowski said that when Mikolajczyk came to Moscow last year for fruitless conversations on the formation of a provisional government, underground leaders agreed that he should not be informed of their plan of action.

FRENCH ATTACK SYRIANS

BEIRUT, June 20 (INS)—Fighting was reported today to have broken out between French and native troops in northwest Syria.

Eire Bishops Ask Prayer for Poles

Special to the Boston Evening American

MAYNOOTH KILDARE, Eire, June 20—The Irish Catholic hierarchy meeting here passed a resolution offering to the Polish nation "their deep sympathy in her trials and sufferings, which the cessation of hostilities has done nothing to mitigate."

Declaring lasting peace becomes impossible should "the western nations fail to stand firm on their pledged word," the Irish bishops' resolution calls on the people of Eire—"whose history is in so many ways like that of the Poles"—to pray for Poland.

Japs Tell of 2 Fleets on Prowl

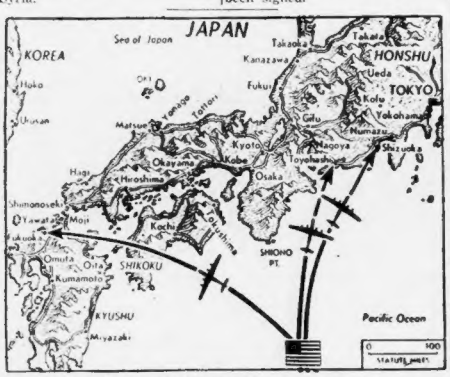
SAN FRANCISCO, June 20 (AP)—The Japanese said today two Allied task forces were on the prowl near Miyako island midway between Okinawa and Formosa.

The Domei agency broadcast said three battleships were in one force while the "mainstay" of the second consisted of five aircraft carriers and a battleship.

The dispatch said reconnaissance planes had spotted more than 100 transports at anchor in the Kerma islands, 20 miles west of Okinawa.

SIGN YUGOSLAV PACT

ROME, June 20 (AP)—Allied headquarters announced today a program for implementing the Allied-Yugoslav agreement on the occupation of Venezia Giulia had been signed.



THREE MORE JAP CITIES BOMBED—More than 3000 tons of incendiary bombs have devastated the Jap cities of Shizuoka, Toyohashi and Fukuoka as B-29's raised their total of cities razed to thirteen, 800,000 civilians were forced to flee from "home factories" as flames devoured the structures.

Boy 11 Months Old Becomes Citizen

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP)—Charles Franklin Cohen, 11 months old, became a U. S. citizen today. Examiner William E. Lemke said he was the youngest person ever to be naturalized here.

The father, Sgt. Maj. Max Cohen of the Canadian Army, raised his son's right hand as Federal Judge John P. Barnes administered the oath of allegiance to some 250 persons. Present was Charles' mother, Mrs. Doreen Cohen, a native of Winnipeg, Manitoba, who was naturalized last December. Charles was born in Winnipeg.

1000 More Vets Back On 53 Aircraft

PRESQUE ISLE, Me., June 20 (AP)—Fifty-three tactical aircraft of the 8th Air Force, continuing the mass return of American Air Force combat men from Europe, brought in another 1000 today within five hours.

De Valera Sends Protest to Tokyo

DUBLIN, June 20 (AP)—Premier Eamon De Valera told the Dail (Parliament) today that Eire had protested to Tokyo the reported slaying of four Irish priests by the Japanese at Manila.

450 Big Forts Rain Fire On 3 Jap War Cities

By ROBBIN COONS

GUAM, June 20 (AP)—Superfortresses again dumped 3000 tons of fire bombs on three Japanese industrial cities today, setting wind-fanned blazes, which pilots said were visible 75 miles away and wiped from the map as a war target the munitions center of Shizuoka, 85 miles southwest of Tokyo.

The 450 Superfortresses, carrying out their 25th big incendiary strike, treated these secondary industrial cities to the same ordeal by fire that has erased most of the factories in Japan's greater cities.

The Tokyo radio admitted fires raged out of control for five hours in Toyohashi, also on the main island of Honshu.

Fukuoka, on the southernmost island, Kyushu, third target of the day, was turned into a predawn bonfire, pilots reported. Largest of the three cities, Fukuoka has a population of 323,000, Toyohashi 242,000 and Shizuoka 212,000.

All three were raided before, but today's strike was their first in the great fire raid campaign to wipe out Japan's warmaking centers.

(The 20th Air Force Headquarters in Washington reported that two B-29s were missing after the triple blow. Opposition from Japanese fighter planes was described as weak and the flak as "medium and inaccurate.")

Radio Tokyo said 60 other B-29s, continuing the aerial blockade of home waters, laid mines off the west coast of Honshu and in the Kanmon strait between Honshu and Kyushu.

Another Tokyo broadcast said 30 Thunderbolts and Lightnings from Okinawa raided the smaller city of Omura, west of Omuta, today.

Flames from Monday's raid still licked at Omuta, also on Kyushu, when the bombers struck today.

Lt. William W. Potter of Knoxville, Tenn., described the pattern of destruction in Fukuoka thus:

"A path of flame two miles wide ran from the dock area, where several ships were burning, back inland for 10 miles. Over the central target areas, smoke rose 10,000 feet in a column two miles in diameter."

East Braintree Flier In Big B-29 Raid

Returning to his Guam base from the great fire raid over Shizuoka, south of Tokyo, Lt. Thomas F. Kelly of Faxon st., East Braintree, reported incendiary flames were spread through the city by high winds, according to an Associated Press dispatch today.

Lt. Kelly, co-pilot of the bomber City of Louisville, Ky., said his crew bombed the city without use of sights and that columns of smoke were rising 15,000 feet.

Nips Leap to Death

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, June 20 (AP)—Large numbers of Japanese leaped to death from the cliffs of Okinawa today and more and more were surrendering as U. S. tanks and troops broke through to the south shore.

Two Marine regiments seized 700 yards of the south coast as they fanned out, an artillery spotter plane pilot said he saw many Japs or civilians leaping into the sea in the first mass suicides since the Saipan campaign.

Other Jap troops in increasing numbers were slipping in among the thousands of civilians streaming through the American lines and were surrendering. Many of the few thousand still fighting were wounded.

Some of the most stubborn opposition was met before Mabuni, near the southeastern coast, where the enemy's commanding general was believed at bay with his staff, determined to stand and die.

Tokyo radio broadcast conceded loss of Okinawa and declared its fall would have serious military consequences. They claimed "furious hand-to-hand" fighting still in progress, however.

Well back of the Marine spearhead on the south coast, one pocket of the enemy fought on in a death trap east of Kunishi ridge—a western strongpoint—delaying the advance in the center.

Lt. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, commander of the 10th Army whose promotion was announced yesterday, was pressing for a quick decision.

Tanks spilled out over the plateaus leading down to the sea, helping the foot soldiers clean out enemy-infested caves.

With the enemy breaking in disorganized confusion in the Marine sector of southwestern Okinawa, and 500 Japs surrendering in one day, Adm. Nimitz said "the enemy's defenses were in the process of collapsing" by nightfall yesterday.

The southern end of the island was a nightmare of confusion. In some sectors, Japanese fled frantically across open terrain. Aircraft strafed and heavy warships shelled them.

Other groups of Nips made death stands until wiped out by tanks, flame throwers or small arms fire. They killed many Americans, including some high ranking officers.

Others, seeing their comrades wiped out by rocket-firing LCI's, used as gunboats close ashore, signaled a desire to surrender. Seven swam out to an LCI and gave themselves up.

Luzon Windup Near

MANILA, June 20 (AP)—It appeared unlikely today that the disorganized Japs in the Cagayan valley could consolidate anywhere for a stand against the riverhopping 37th Ohio Infantry Division, fast approaching to within 100 miles of the island's north tip.

The Cagayan drive constitutes the major windup move of the five-months-old Luzon campaign.

The Japs had been expected to fight to the death at Nagulian. When their mortar fire opened up as Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's men massed assault boats to cross the Cagayan river before the town, the general barked:

"I want that town wiped out. Put over an air strike immediately and follow up with at least 500 rounds of artillery."

The Japs fled. The infantrymen easily crossed the river and walked into the ruined town.

Beightler's men poured ahead to approach Ilagan, 110 miles south of Aparri.

Jap casualties during the past week on Luzon's scattered fronts exceeded 1600 dead and 500 taken prisoner.

Meat-Starved N.E. In Plea to Solons

Mounting protests from meat-starved residents of Greater Boston poured in on the state's Senators and Representatives in Congress today as New England governors and heads of seven other eastern states prepared to attend a New York conference Friday on black markets.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who called the conference along with Gov. Raymond H. Baldwin, of Connecticut, has urged the governors to arrive in New York tomorrow night, if possible, and has announced the conference will continue until its work is completed.

Meanwhile, thousands of Greater Boston and Massachusetts residents, who have found it almost impossible to obtain meats and various other foods, are registering an emphatic protest to their representatives in Washington.

"The complaint mail I have been receiving has been tremendous," Sen. David I. Walsh declared. "Most of the writers have complained of their inability to obtain legitimate supplies of meat. Others have reported drastic shortages of sugar, potatoes, eggs and butter.

"I am sending the avalanche of protests to the OPA, which has promised to give relief, although nothing has happened so far.

"The primary cause, in my belief, is that we delegated primary controls to the President under the War Power Act.

"Now the bureaus have the control and they have bungled so badly that things are rapidly getting worse.

"I hope that the new regulations will help and that the taking over of the office of Secretary of Agriculture of Rep. Clinton Anderson will bring about some relief."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall said he has been receiving an average of a dozen letters a day on the meat shortage and more on the lack of sugar. He expressed hope that new OPA regulations would help relieve the situation.

Rep. Christian A. Herter, member of the House Food Investigating Committee, said constituents were writing him an average of six letters daily.

Rep. James M. Curley said he had received letters of complaint from several organizations while Rep. Charles R. Clason said city officials of Springfield, Ludlow and Chicopee had written protests to him.

Gov. Charles M. Dale, of New Hampshire, said New Hampshire's resort areas were threatened with a serious problem in feeding a record number of guests.

"New Hampshire must have more meat," he asserted, "not only to keep its own citizens in good health but to insure the feeding of vacationists who have made capacity reservations for the summer and fall months."

Bureaucratic bungling has set in motion a flourishing and dangerous business in black market slaughtering. YOUR meat may come from these hideaway sources. The story of this ugly chapter of ration blundering is told in words and pictures on today's center pages.

Women in 1st Hub Food Riot

Enraged when a small supply of poultry was exhausted before they could purchase any, more than 100 women today hurled stones at a Sumner st., East Boston, meat market windows and attempted to ransack the store in a search for chicken in the first outbreak of violence in the critical meat shortage.

The women refused to believe Nathaniel J. Phillips, proprietor, when he told them the chickens were all gone. They milled about the store, prying open bins and boxes.

Others in the street threw stones, several of which broke windows.

Police were called and after convincing the irate shoppers there really was no meat, dispersed the rioters.

Phillips said a small supply of poultry received this morning was sold within an hour.

WOMAN PLUNGES 50 FEET —Seeking escape after her son had locked her in the bathroom, Mrs. Margaret DiPrisco (left), 24, of Harrison ave., South End, today fell 50 feet down an airshaft when she stepped through a skylight outside the window of the room. The youngster, Thomas, 3, is shown above with his aunt, Mrs. Helen Pearson, while below, Peter Bonfilio, examines the skylight. Mrs. DiPrisco was treated at City Hospital for possible fracture of the spine, ribs and left leg. Her condition is critical.

BELLA I. MADOW, teacher at the Mary C. Burke School, is helped across Spencer ave., Chelsea, by Charles Pratt as flood waters swirl about his legs. Rain-augmented rivers are adding to the damage outside the city and flooding crops.

3 'Shangri-La' Survivors Reach Lost Valley's Floor

HOLLANDIA, New Guinea, June 18 (delayed) (AP)—Three survivors of an Army plane crash in the wilds of New Guinea arrived today with their rescuers on the floor of the valley of "Shangri-La."

For three days they hacked their way through the jungle and clambered down the gorge from halfway up the mountainside where their plane struck and burst into flames last month at a cost of 20 lives.

A dress rehearsal of the glider rescue by which the Army hopes to bring them from the mountain-girt valley was held at Biak under the eye of Col. Ray T. Elsmore, Menlo Park, Cal.

Col. T. R. Lynch, in charge of the rescue arrangements, prepared to welcome the three Thursday, the expected day of arrival here.

From the cockpit of Elsmore's plane I saw the three, WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings, Oswego, N. Y., Lt. John B. McCollom, Trenton, Mo., and Sgt. Kenneth Decker, Kelso, Wash., run from the base camp tents and stretch their hands skyward in greeting our buzzing plane.

About 100 of the natives of the hidden valley who helped carry supplies down the treacherous mountain slopes, fled to the thickets as our plane swooped in.

At Biak, Maj. William Samuels, Oakland, Cal., who will pilot the specially-equipped Army transport, said he expected no difficulty, but he was dissatisfied with today's test.

Tomorrow he will load the glider with twice the weight it will pull out of the valley and make another test.

Sgt. W. N. Howell, Bay Minette, Ala., who will handle the intricate winch mechanism on the tow plane, said he was "sure we can do it."

Greatest danger is a stall after the plane pickes up the glider. Samuels said the plane would approach the poles to make the hook-up at 130 miles an hour, but the tow slows the plane to 90 miles, only 10 miles an hour above stalling speed of the C-47.

Afterwards it will take 45 more minutes to get the glider high enough to clear the mountains.

Rain a Pain? Not to These Pane Fellows!

This was a dismal day with mud on its skirts, and a careful survey of Boston disclosed there were few happy persons in the entire city.

They were proprietors of window washing concerns who clean up every time a good rainstorm comes along. Another was the proprietor of a downtown cafe who moved two potted plants out on the sidewalk to refresh them.

Elsewhere gloom prevailed, even goldfish were blue. At Lafayette Park, in Lynn, Goldfish Pond got more than it could take and the goldfish were breast-stroking it on grass, wondering what else they might have to put up with.

This was the day hundreds of small fry were going to Fenway Park to see the Red Sox vanquish the Yankees and to see their new hero, Ferriss, pitch.

Tomorrow will be a plum, according to the meteorologist. It will be, "partly cloudy, becoming very warm and humid once again, followed by late afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms."

Damp, ain't it?

P. S.—The rainfall was really something to talk about when you realize that 2.18 inches fell between 2 and 8 this morning. That's only a few hundredths short of the all-time high of 2.45 inches recorded during two hours in July, 1915.

June has outdone May for rainfall so far. In the first 20 days Boston has had 4.63 inches compared with May's entire fall of 4.47.

Truce Declared In Squires Strike

A truce in the nine-day strike of 900 at J. P. Squires meat precessing plant, Cambridge, was reached today at a hearing before the War Labor Board and the workers agreed to return to their jobs tomorrow morning.

The agreement followed a two-day conference between union and company officials arranged by the regional WLB. The workers accepted a recommendation that work be resumed while the disputed issue of working foremen was thrashed out.

A meeting of employes was called for 5 p. m. today in Lusitania Hall, Cambridge, to notify them of the decision.

Ceilings Off?

Market district produce dealers heard reports today ceiling prices on some vegetables would be removed shortly by the OPA. Dealers believe such action would be the forerunner of lifting of ceilings on poultry and eggs, also.

Truman Seeks To Rush Parley

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 20 (AP)—President Truman sought today to speed conclusion of the San Francisco Security Conference as prospects for a windup this week steadily diminished.

The President, resting at the executive mansion as a guest of Gov. Wallgren, was known to have expressed disappointment to United States delegates over reports the conference would extend over into next week.

The President was represented as still hopeful the international peace charter can be worked out this week. However, he was said to have conceded to intimates there were strong indications this could not be done.

In that event, the President will remain here until early next week, and fly into San Francisco for the address—still tentatively scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Meanwhile, Press Secy. Ross announced the President would hold a press conference tomorrow, his first outside the White House.

Ross also announced Gov. Wallgren would accompany the President to San Francisco for the historic speech in which Mr. Truman will bring the long conference, dedicated to the preservation of peace, to a close.

Interest in tomorrow's press conference was heightened by speculation over possibility he may have more to say about his forthcoming "Big Three" meeting on the outskirts of Berlin.

He got up at 5:30 a. m., today, put on a leather and tweed sports jacket and took a long walk before breakfast.

"It was the best walk I've had since entering the White House," Truman told reporters.

He was obviously in good spirits, despite his disappointment over delay in winding up the conference.

Warn of Fats, Oils Shortage Until 1946

By ERWIN D. SIAS

WASHINGTON, June 20 (INS)—The Republican congressional food study committee today blamed the government for the critical shortage of fats and oils which it said would continue until the late spring or summer of 1946.

The committee released a report on the fats and oils situation including butter, shortening, soap and other household products as these other developments arose on the food front:

1—Rep. Andresen (R.) of Minnesota, predicted "There won't be much eating in the United States" in the coming year unless prospects for the corn crop show marked improvement.

2—Possibility was seen of a prompt move by Rep. Anderson (D.) of New Mexico, to solve the civilian poultry shortage in eastern states when he takes over the combined agricultural and WFA post July 1.

The Republican food study committee reported butter production this year will be about 23 per cent less than in 1941; lard output 28 per cent less than last year; edible tallow 16 per cent below 1941; cottonseed oil six per cent under 1941; olive oil 50 per cent less than 1941 and peanut oil 40 per cent under the pre-war figure.

Club Set to Defy Ban and Open

Owners of a new $60,000 night club in Austin st., Central sq. district of Cambridge, plan to go ahead with their scheduled opening tonight despite refusal of Superintendent of Buildings John J. Terry to grant a certificate of occupancy.

The building, occupied for many years by the Jefferson Club, a Democratic party organization, has been remodeled and lavishly decorated by the Inman Social Club.

Terry, however, based refusal to grant a certificate of occupancy on the ground the location is in a residential zone and permit could not be granted without public hearing.

Abraham Zintz, counsel for the club, pointed out the License Commission granted a liquor license after a hearing in which no protest was offered.

Owners of the club are reported to have filed a bill in equity returnable June 29 ordering Terry to show cause why he should not be enjoined from interfering with operation of the club.

Officers of the club are Peter Luzackas of Broadway, Cambridge, president and clerk; William Rose, treasurer, and Frank Lang, manager.

The 53-year-old veteran of the First World War was the second high ranking officer to fall on the island this week. Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., commander of the 10th Army, was killed by a Japanese shellburst Monday.

Bops 4 Bartenders In Rampaging Tour

Spreading headaches in his wake, a 40-year-old barroom battler barged in and out of Columbus ave. taverns today until he finally ended up at City Hospital along with four of his victims.

The troublemaker, who swung bottles and fists and pitched glasses with all the grace of a Singapore sailor, first stepped into Fahey's Tavern to quench a thirst that, quite apparent to all, needed no quenching.

At least Dennis Lyne, 41-year-old bartender, felt that way about it—and sadly shook his head.

In less time than it takes to write it, a bottle of rum bounced off Lyne's head and the thirsty one calmly picked up another bottle and placed it to his lips.

Thomas Shields, 42, of Appleton st., South End, in the role of peacemaker, chided the visitor on the etiquette of drinking from bottles.

Shields also got a bottle over the noggin for his pains and the unwelcome visitor set out for a more friendly oasis.

But he proved just as unwelcome at Tim's Tavern, nearby, where Anthony Booth, 60, another head-shaking bartender, became the third victim.

The battler gulped a pilfered drink and bopped Booth lustily, after which he tossed bottles and glasses in all directions while customers dived for cover.

Then he weaved down Columbus ave. and into Chandler st, where he met Patrolman John "The Mighty" O'Connor, as he is known to his mates at the Warren ave. station.

Either because he had run out of bottles, or because O'Connor's nickname is well deserved, the battler finally took the count, although the patrolman also joined the list of hospital cases for treatment for an injured hand—his best punching hand, the right.

Lyne, Shields and Booth all were treated for head lacerations, while the bad-man battler underwent general renovation. He was held as a suspicious person with further charges to be pressed when he can talk coherently.

14,000 Arrive On Queen Mary

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP)—The giant British liner Queen Mary, which carried hundreds of thousands of American troops to the European war, arrived in New York today, packed with 14,000 of them coming home.

It was the 81,000-ton vessel's first voyage to the United States since V-E Day.

Included were 11,248 redeployment troops, 616 men with enough points for discharge, 467 liberated prisoners of war and 2200 naval personnel. The redeployment troops will go to Camp Shanks, N. Y., and the others to Camp Kilmer, N. J.

Servicewoman Urges Jobs For Girl Vets

Legislation for a Veterans' Service Committee now pending in the State Legislature was criticized today by Col. Ralph W. Smith, State director of Selective Service, at a conference at the Hotel Statler sponsored by the American Legion to seek the key to postwar prosperity by creation of jobs for veterans and non-veterans alike.

Among other speakers was Lt. (jg) Margaret J. Haggerty of the Navy Recruiting Station, who said servicewomen were also asking what was going to happen to them after the war.

"The women aren't coming back crippled, but many have families to support and careers to pursue," she said. "We hope the Legion will see that in each community these highly-trained women will have preference and opportunity."

Col. Smith said the legislation, while broad in scope, provides no authority for the Veterans' Committee.

"After five years of experience with volunteer boards for Selective Service, I believe an unpaid, volunteer, and disinterested citizen is the best person for counselor for the returning veteran," he said.

He urged the Legion to make it possible in every community for every organization and interested citizen to have a chance to give time in behalf of the returning veteran, and said this could be accomplished by giving the people some authority.

The two-day session ended today, climaxing a series of twelve regional meetings in every section of the United States.

Lynn Restaurant Blast Hurts 10

Shattering plate glass windows and tossing glass into the street, an explosion in the Waldorf restaurant in Central sq., Lynn, today injured two employes and knocked eight other persons to the floor.

Miss Georgia Fitch, 21, of Landers st., suffered head injuries and brain concussion. Another worker, Ebrie Smyr, 65, of Central ave., Lynn, received head lacerations. Both were taken to Lynn Hospital.

Six customers and two other employes, Miss Amelia Romano, 55, of Summer st., and John Roderick of Adams st., were stunned by the blast which tossed tables and chairs into the air and lifted the floor more than two feet.

A car parked in front of the restaurant was badly damaged by flying glass and timbers.

Howard Williams, manager, could give no estimate of the damage or cause. Police admitted they did not know the exact cause but believed the explosion might have been in a hot water tank in the basement.

Rally to Randolph Vet Seeking Old Police Job

By AUSTEN LAKE

The pleasant town of Randolph is having some GI Bill of Rights trouble. Ex-Pvt. Edward T. Clark, rifleman with the 79th Division and recently honorably discharged after seven months in Army hospitals with wounds in the right forearm and left knee, wants his old police job back again. The board of selectmen and Chief Patrick T. McDonnell are in no hurry to give it to him. They claim they are puzzled as to how a policeman with no left kneecap and a stiff joint can patrol his beat.

But under his civil service status and the GI Bill of Rights, Clark is entitled to get his old job back again, or fair facsimile of same. His townsmen friends say that since there are no regulations governing the duties of a patrolman, he should be assigned to a desk job at the police office in the town hall, where hitherto there has been no officer on duty.

Selectman Theodore Luddington, who has signed Clark's reinstatement papers, said the wounded veteran was "getting a run around," and that there was no reason why an inside police position should not be created for him, especially since the town's only police alarm system is a red-flash bulb located at the front of the telephone building.

"Three quarters of the time," said Luddington, "there is nobody in the police office to take calls or administer its affairs."

The town's police force consists of seven patrolmen, one of whom is Clark's "military substitute," filling his shoes temporarily until the veteran returns.

Chief McDonnell, according to Luddington, stated before the selectmen that "If there is any inside job to be created, I want it." Further than that, Luddington said, McDonnell has opposed re-assignment of Clark for reasons vaguely described as "largely personal."

Meanwhile, State Civil Service Comr. Greehan has made it clear that if an inside job is created, and Clark is assigned to it, with a doctor's certificate of ability to carry out desk duties, he will immediately restore Clark to full civil service status. Except for the stiffness of his left leg, Clark, father of two children and with no means of income to meet payments on his cottage, other than through his old job, is able-bodied.

A movement already has been started to call a town meeting to protest the apathy and delay in the matter of Clark's reinstatement. The meeting is planned to force the issue with two recalcitrant selectmen, Charles F. Blakley and Ralph Hutchinson, who thus far have refused to sign Clark's reinstatement papers.

Clark was wounded on October 14 of last year during an infantry assault on a hill at Luneville, France. He was struck by shrapnel splinters and brought in, strapped to the deck of a tank, after Pvt. Larry Clapp of Taunton, had crawled over shell-swept ground to bandage his wounds.

Now fully recovered except for his stiff knee, he wants to be restored to civil service status in the town he left to join the Army.

Birdcage Tosser Loses His WAVE

A Marblehead matron and a pretty blonde WAVE won divorces in Suffolk Probate court today.

WAVE Bertha T. Hawker, now stationed at Hunter College, N. Y., was given a divorce from Ens. Harold P. Hawker, formerly of Commonwealth ave., Back Bay. She said her husband beat her because she hid his liquor, and on another occasion struck her with a bird cage, killing two of her pets.

Mrs. Marguerite E. Bruce, 35, of Washington st., Marblehead, was granted a decree on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment from Alan E. Bruce of Boston, and given custody of their seven-year-old daughter, Andrea.

Mrs. Bruce said her husband often stayed away from home and his shirts were smeared with lipstick.

16-15 Wed, Still Wait 13 Mos.

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP) — Gloria Welsh, 15, and Edward Waybright, 16, who have been married twice and parted by annulment once, were placed under juvenile court supervision today and ordered by Judge Frank Bicek to remain apart until they are of legal marriageable age.

Under the ruling, they may live together in 13 months, when Waybright becomes 18. Gloria will be 16 a year from yesterday, legal age for a girl.

The couple eloped to Kentucky and were married early this year, but that marriage was annuled by the court ruling they could see each other only on Sunday, but that their visits were to be unsupervised.

On Sunday, May 13, theywent to Waukegan, Ill., and were married by a justice of the peace. Their case was continued until Sept. 19. The court said the second marriage is valid if not protested, and that the parents have agreed to allow them to remain married if they abide by the court's ruling separating them until they reach legal marriage age.

MORE GAS FOR BOATS

Wife Sees Sailor Held in $15,000 For Girl Attack

While his attractive young wife sat alone in the front row of spectators' seats, Warren A. Fulton, 28-year-old Navy machinist, pleaded not guilty in Quincy court today to a charge of molesting Carol Vickery, 7, of Cohasset, and was held in $15,000 bonds to await hearing on July 6.

Judge Gertrude Halloran ordered the continuance at the request of Cohasset Police Chief Hector Pelletier, who said police wanted to investigate Fulton's whereabouts at the time of other cases involving South Shore children.

Unable to make bail, Fulton was taken to Dedham jail.

Mrs. Fulton, who lives in Lydia st., Providence, is the sailor's second wife. The couple have one daughter, 4 months old, and Fulton has two other children by his first wife, police said.

Court Orders Vara Acquittal

Suffolk Superior Court Justice Jesse W. Morton today ordered a directed verdict of not guilty in the trial of Joseph Vara, 47, Adams sq. cafe manager charged with manslaughter in connection with the death April 4 of Arthur H. Liebrum, 20, of Framingham.

The decision was made on a motion by defense counsel that the charge be dismissed after the state completed its case. Twelve witnesses testified for the prosecution.

Liebrum's partly-clad body was found in his car on a Broadway, South End, parking lot a few hours after he was alleged to have argued with Vara.

CANADIANS TO TRAIN

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP) —A Canadian vounteer force destined for the Pacific war will arrive at Camp Breckinridge, Ky., early in September for training, Maj. Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister said today.

PRELUDE TO BATTLE—In happier days the Battling Robert Huttons sipped from the same glass. Now, after a year and a half of marriage, they can't get along and the former socialite Natalie Thompson will, according to Boston American Hollywood columnist Louella Parsons, file for divorce from the screen actor.

Benefit Show Ticket Buyers Must Hurry

As an accommodation to war-busy men and women, a second ticket booth was opened today in the Washington st., lobby of the Keith Memorial theater for sale of seats at Sunday night's mammoth benefit show at the Boston Garden arranged by the Boston Record-American and Sunday Advertiser.

Miss Betty Bradford of Brookline, attractive and personable singer with Greater Boston bands, will preside over the downtown booth as a volunteer in the cause of servicemen's wives. The downtown ticket office, operating in conjunction with the Boston Garden, will be open daily from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m.

As the already amazing list of entertainers for the Sunday night bill continues to grow, Betty's Keith Memorial booth and the Boston Garden box office will furnish showwise purchasers with the best availing remaining accommodations at the same popular prices, $1.20, $2.40 and $3.60. Hours at the Boston Garden ticket office daily are 10 a. m. to 8 p. m.

But the watchword is "speed," because it will be first come, first served for attendance at this show of tremendous proportions.

Latest additions to the top-drawer program—which will be run off with none other than Eddie Cantor as master of ceremonies—are Johnnie Johnston, current singing rage now at the Statler; Ray Dorey, the noted Yankee Network vocalist, and blonde Marion Mulhall, known to war veterans in all New England hospitals as "the Boston Thrush."

So the rare opportunity is offered you, not only to see a show of shows, but to look well upon heroes who took the worst the enemy could dish out—and still live to tell it. Here also is a rare opportunity for you, while being entertained as never before, to help other heroes and their womenfolk and their children.

This is made possible because the big Garden show has been arranged by these newspapers in twofold purpose—to raise funds for a downtown center for servicemen's wives and mothers, and as a salute to "Back to Bataan," stirring RKO film epic of Yankee diehards and Filipino guerillas who made recovery of the Philippines possible. The film has its world premiere next Monday at the Keith Memorial.

In addition to Eddie Cantor and his radio troupe, including Leonard Sues, famed trumpeter; Fred Martel, vocalist, and Bea Walker, song stylist, you will get the following on the Sunday night bill:

Benny Goodman, his 24-piece band and his sextet, from the RKO-Boston; Romo Vincent, popular Broadway comedian and star of "Marinka," which opened last night at the Shubert; Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, resident Philippines commissioner to the U. S. and member of Gen. MacArthur's staff.

From Hollywood: Beautiful Ellen Drew, star of RKO's "China Sky"; John Wayne and Fely Franquelli, starred in "Back to Bataan"; Anthony Quinn and Ducky Louie, supporting players in the epic film, and Jesse L. Lasky, RKO producing ace.

From Club Mayfair: Johnny Howard, Hollywood's favorite funster; the Whitney Sisters dance team; the Crosby Sisters, comedians of song; the Six Dancing Mayfairettes.

From the Latin Quarter: Comical Chaz Chase, the voice of Paddy Cliff, the 14 Don Arden Girls, Tony Bruno and his celebrated 25-piece band.

From the New Bradford Roof: Jackie Miles, one-man show and the season's laugh king.

From the Yankee Network: Jean Merrill, Ted Cole and the Gallagher Sisters, singers.

Here is an evening at the Garden which you can't afford to miss.

No GOP Candidate In Mayoralty Race

For the first time in many years the Republicans will be without a candidate in this year's Boston mayoralty race, as a result of the failure of former Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols to file the nomination papers he took out last week.

Passing of the deadline for filing brought a statement from Nichols, frankly admitting that since placing his papers in circulation he had obtained only 2500 signatures, 500 short of the required 3000.

Today there were 13 Democratic candidates in the field for mayor, with a battle brewing between rival candidates as to the authenticity of signatures on nomination papers.

The 13 who filed for mayor are Mayor John E. Kerrigan, Rep. James M. Curley, former Fire Commissioner William Arthur Reilly, Governor's Councilor John J. Sawtelle, School Committeemen Joseph C. White and Clement A. Norton, City Councilor Michael P. Feeney, former School Committeeman Joseph Lee, Richard M. Russell, former mayor of Cambridge; Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward M. Sullivan, Chester A. Dolan of Roxbury, father of Sen. Chester Dolan; John J. Concannon of Dorchester and John R. Buckley of Roxbury.

Mayor Kerrigan and Rep. Curley are the only candidates so far who have completed the legal requirements of 3000 signatures and have had them certified by the election commissioners.

Eleven candidates filed for two berths on the school committee and 88 for 22 city council positions.

Gen. Eisenhower Reviews Cadets

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 20 (AP)—Wave after wave of steel-helmeted, khaki-clad cadets passed in review today for Gen. Eisenhower on the sun-drenched parade ground of the United States Military Academy.

The review was a high point of the commander's visit here and he watched with the same broad smile with which he acknowledged yesterday's frenzied greeting by millions in New York City.

Eisenhower was welcomed to the academy with a 17-gun salute and the flourishes and ruffles due a five-star general.

Today was a home-coming as well as a formal call for the general. He worked into the day's schedule a visit to the quarters he occupied as a cadet.

Old-timers at the post remember "Ike" as he was known even then as a yellow-haired, good-natured Kansan who didn't work overly hard at his studies, but managed to graduate 61st in a class of 164.

Stolen $35,000 Life Savings Recovered

Bank books and uncashed checks valued at more than $35,000, the life savings of Peter Finnegan, 49, downtown hotel porter, were recovered by Boston police today after a trunk containing the valuables had been stolen from his Dudley st., Roxbury, home.

Patrolmen John McDonough and John Costello saw two men lugging the trunk along Dudley st. They dropped it and fled when the officers approached.

Robin Gives Up Traveling Nest

CHICAGO, June 20 (AP) — A robin which tried to raise a family on a railroad coach apparently has flown away from her traveling home.

A month ago a nest appeared on an air brake cylinder beneath a coach. An egg appeared, then another egg, and a mother robin sitting on both.

But each morning when the train left on a 72-mile trip, the robin left the nest. Each night when the train returned, the robin was waiting.

Last night no robin appeared. Dr. Albert Wolfson, associate professor in the zoology department of Northwestern University, said the normal incubation period for robin's eggs is from 10 to 12 days and if eggs do not hatch in that time the mother abandons both nest and eggs. And goes and builds elsewhere.

Ike, the Tailor

NEW YORK, June 20 (AP) —Among signs that greeted Gen. Eisenhower as he passed through New York's garment district, were:

"Hail Eisenhower, who pressed the Nazis flat—Pressmens' Union No. 60."

"Hail Eisenhower, who cut the Nazis up—Cutters' Union."

"Hail Eisenhower, who finished Hitler off—Finishers' Union."

Surgeon Shot In Bridgeport

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., June 20 (AP)—Dr. William H. Curley, 58, was in St. Vincent's hospital today with gunshot wounds in the head, after being attacked, police said, by an unidentified person last night.

Authorities said the back and top of the surgeon's head were torn by the charge, apparently from a shotgun. X-ray examination disclosed some pellets lodged under Dr. Curley's scalp.

Police said a 16-gauge shotgun believed to have been the weapon used, was discovered near Dr. Curley's home. Police sought a black sedan reported to have sped from the scene.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—If a serviceman was killed in action and his widow and child receive a pension, would his mother also be entitled to receive a pension if she has a very small income but which is not sufficient for her living expenses? B. L., Brighton.

A—The mother should contact the Veterans Administration, Post Office Bldg., Boston, Mass., giving detailed information as to her circumstance and she will be advised as to whether or not she is eligible to receive a pension.

Q—I have married a Navy Y 3c and have a minor child from a former marriage but I do not receive the family allowance for her. What shall I do? A. M., Charlestown.

A—The stepchild of a serviceman is eligible for family allowance if a member of his household. It is suggested that families of naval personnel contact District Benefits and Insurance Officer, First Naval District, 150 Causeway st., Boston.

Q—If a soldier has been overseas two years, in service three years, but was returned to this country for two-month emergency furlough and then sent overseas again, does he receive credit for those two months as overseas service in counting points? R. W., Chelsea.

A—No, he does not receive the credit for overseas service on those two months.

Q—My husband is overseas in Germany. I've been receiving family allowance for myself and two children. A friend tells me that this will be discontinued now because the war in Germany is over. Is this true? S. A., Lynn.

A—No, it is not. You will continue to receive your Family Allowance checks.

Q—My husband has been in service over four years and has been overseas for almost three years. About a year ago he went AWOL for several months, then was courtmartialed and is now in confinement. Does he receive point credit for the time he was AWOL? M. L., Medford.

A—No, he does not, nor for the time he is in confinement. Points accrued before he went AWOL will remain to his credit.

Sugar Sent Abroad, U. S. Famine Near

Asserting the nation was facing a sugar famine, Paul S. Willis, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, declared today nearly two million tons of sugar would be released soon to European countries although reserve stocks in Great Britain were higher than peacetime levels.

Willis was one of more than 100 executives attending a regional conference of the grocery manufacturers association at Hotel Statler to discuss causes of shortages in meat, sugar, fats, oils and other products.

"It is not at all clear to the food processing industry that this sugar famine is necessary," Willis said.

"No food manufacturer questions the propriety of supplying our armed forces with all the requirements first. But, after military needs have been met, all requirements for relief, rehabilitation and other export purposes must be evacuated against our own immediate essential domestic needs.

"Since V-E Day there has been too much secrecy at a time when military security requires no secrecy. Stockpiles of sugar held in other countries are known to our government

"Reliable information is that a total of nearly 2,000,000 tons will soon be released to European countries.

Willis declared further cuts in industrial use of sugar would cripple the food processing industry.

Dever Confirmed By Tobin Council

The executive council today confirmed Gov. Tobin's appointment of Joseph P. Dever of Newton, ousted chairman of the Boston Transit Commission, as an associate state public works commissioner but delayed action on Francis X. Cotter as state commissioner of veterans' aid and pensions.

Dever's appointment was submitted by Tobin June 6, shortly after Mayor Kerrigan removed him from his city job.

The council sent the Cotter nomination to committee for one week while arrangements are made to protect the pension rights of W. Rea Long, present commissioner.

All other appointments submitted last week by the Governor were confirmed.

The council approved a $2,600,000 contract for work at Logan International Airport with Councillor John J. Sawtelle recording himself in opposition.

Hitler

tempting to break his way through a bridge across the river Spree near the Friedrichstrasse railway station.

Bormann died, Kempke said, when the Soviets blew up a Mark IV tank in which he apparently was trying to make his escape. Kempke said that he himself was following on foot behind the tank and was wounded.

The gun which killed Bormann, according to the chauffeur, was a captured German Panzerfaust, Nazi equivalent to the American bazooka.

A step ahead of Bormann alongside the Mark-IV, according to Kempke, was Dr. Werner Naumann, state secretary of the propaganda ministry, who two days before had performed the marriage ceremany linking Hitler with Fraulein Braun. Next came a battery of Hitler's doctors.

The Panzerfaust shot killed all of them, Kempke said, unless there was the outside chance that Bormann was merely stunned and later escaped. As regards Hitler, the chauffeur said:

"I swear on every oath that Hitler and Eva Braun died. I saw the Fuehrer alive on the afternoon of April 29.

"It was no double, and at that time there was no way for him to escape, even by autogyro, except by fighting his way through the Russians.

"I have known Eva Braun since 1932."

Policeman Says He Saw Hitler and Eva Cremated

By DANIEL DE LUCE

MONTGOMERY'S HEADQUARTERS, June 20 (AP)—A German policeman from Berlin said today he saw the bodies of Adolf Hitler and Eva Braun burning at the exit to the Reichschancellery shelter on May 1.

Hermann Karnau, 32, the policeman, told Allied correspondents: "I saw Hitler lying on the ground about two meters from the exit, in open air.

"Hitler was on his back with his knees slightly drawn up. Eve Braun was beside him with her face down. Both bodies were on fire and beside them were four empty gasoline cans. There was an incredible odor.

"I turned about and encountered Prof. Stumpfecker, chief medical officer of the Chancellery, at the main entrance to the bunker. I believe he poisoned the Fuehrer and Fraulein Braun, for four nights earlier he had poisoned the Fuehrer's favorite Alsatian dog, Blondie.

"I entered the bunker, which was 20 meters deep underground, and met Hitler's valet, Linge."

Karnau declared: "We heard that Linge had orders the Fuehrer's body should never fall into the hands of the enemy, who were then about two kilometers away at the Hollisches Tor, and shelling us heavily.

"In the bunker I met Sturbahnfuehrer Schedule, of the Fuehrer's personal staff, coming down the emergency exit. He was calling out: 'The Fuehrer is dead and burning.'

"With another policeman I returned to the spot where the bodies lay. The lower parts of both were burned away, but I recognized Braun by the black suede shoes with high cork soles, which had not yet caught fire."

Crosley Plans Little Car Output

CINCINNATI, June 20 (AP)—A desire to concentrate on manufacture of small automobiles has prompted Powel Crosley to sell the Crosley Corp. to Aviation Corp. of New York in a transaction involving $22,000,000 and financed by 10 banks.

The sale includes radio station WLW, several frequency modulation stations, Crosley's experimental television stations and an option on Station WINS, New York.

Crosley also owns the Cincinnati Reds baseball team but said "the team is not for sale at this time."

AUSTRALIA DROUTH ENDS

MELBOURNE, June 20 (AP)—Heavy rains drenched southern and western Australia today, breaking one of the worst drouths in many years.

WAVES Ask Recruits

Many more WAVES are needed for hospital or general service to hasten victory in the Pacific and to bring our men home sooner. If between 20 and 36 with at least two years of high school, write, call or visit the nearest Navy Recruiting Station or the Office of Naval Officer Procurement, 150 Causeway st., Boston.

'Marinka' Bubbles With Gay Songs, Beauty and Talent

By PEGGY DOYLE

With time awastin' and the mothballs sneaking up on the "legit" season, that almost despaired-of old-fashioned musical arrived in the nick of time at the Shubert last night and delighted the pewholders no end.

"Marinka," George Marion, Jr.'s and Karl Farkas' tuneful, happy rewrite of the tragic Mayerling legend, foregoes the originality of "Oklahoma" and the streamlined lilt of "Carousel" for the timeless appeal of gay melodies, pretty girls, enchanting colors and vicarious romance.

Last night at the Shubert, "Marinka" seemed to be the answer. A happy augury was the presence in leading roles of such Hub favorites as lovely little Joan Roberts, the Laury of "Oklahoma"; Harry Stockwell, a local boy who made Blinstrub's a must; Romo Vincent, of our better night-clubs and several backfiring musicals; Taylor Holmes, the "Baby Bonds" singing Secretary Morganthau of "I'd Rather Be Right," and Ethel Levey, who in years agone shared Hub spotlights with the late George M. Cohan.

This is a tune and toe show that scores in both departments. Emmerich Kalman's music mates beautifully with the lyrics by George Marion, Jr. Producers Jules J. Leventhal and Harry Howard have seen to it that there are voices to do them melodic justice, notably Miss Roberts, the deliciously comic Luba Malina and that outsize Peter Pan, Romo Vincent.

"One Last Love Song," "If I Never Waltz Again" and "Sigh by Night," as sung by Miss Roberts and Stockwell, are dreamy love-songs that are likely to win, place and show in your hit parade. The comedy hit of the swell score is "The Cab Song," sung and acted superbly by Vincent, Leonard Elliot and Ronnie Cunningham, "Old Man Danube," which takes that debunked stream for a Mississippi boat-ride, is another amusing ditty, as recorded for the first-nighters by the voluminously constructed Vincent and the royal guard. Another tidy tune by Miss Roberts et al is "Treat a Woman Like a Drum."

Albertina Rasch can take bows aplenty for the first-act ballet, a lovely, imaginative thing danced by Miss Cunningham, Jack Gansert and the dance ensemble is a standout.

Mary Grant's costumes are always right, either brilliantly colorful in the folk-dance sequences, or provocatively feminine in the romantic interludes. And on Joan Roberts' pertly pretty communer, Marinka, these silk-and-lace confections are divine. An appreciative salute, too, is due Howard Bay's sets.

Stockwell's Crown Prince Rudolph, who loves and marries Marinka, is excellent casting, even if first-night tension somewhat handicapped the Boston boy's native charm. Missing, too, last night, was a song Taylor Holmes is reported to do with his customarily remarkable flair. But these "miffs," a few fluffs and a halting scene here and there were not sufficient to dim the pleasure of a genuinely enthusiastic opening-night audience.

Hassard Short's overall staging ties together as gay and pretty a package of tunes, talent and eye-appeal as ever beglamored a season's end.

Illicit Slaughterers Flourish

By WARREN STEVENS

Bootleg slaughtering—the inevitable result of bureaucratic efforts to restrict legitimate killing of livestock—is going on in Massachusetts on a huge scale. Under a recent four-agency order announced by OPA, slaughterers supplying markets within the State were limited in May and June to killing 75 per cent of the beef and 50 per cent of the hogs they disposed of in the corresponding months last year.

As a result cattle and hogs, either stolen or obtained by connivance with their owners, are being killed in isolated shacks with limited equipment, no refrigeration and often under conditions of indescribable filth.

No tuberculin tests or examination for any other cattle disorders are made before the livestock is slaughtered and the meat rushed to wholesale or retail black markets.

Many purchasers have been driving directly to the slaughtering shacks and piling crates of the illegally-killed meat into the rear seats of pleasure cars.

State police have been busy investigating the mounting trade in bootleg meat since May 24, when Public Safety Commr. John F. Stokes ordered a probe of numerous complaints from all parts of the state that heads and waste of slaughtered cattle had been dumped in isolated areas.

First court action following the investigation came yesterday at Attleboro when three men were fined a total of $500 in district court after being convicted on illegal slaughtering charges.

Arthur J. Soulliere, 34, Adamsdale rd., North Attleboro, and his brother Delphis L., 35, were fined $200 each on charges of unlicensed slaughtering and causing cattle to be slaughtered with intent to sell the meat.

Leo Campbell, 35, of Bagley st., Pawtucket, R. I., was fined $100 on an unlicensed slaughtering charge. Campbell was arrested June 12 and the Soulliere brothers were taken into custody last May 29.

Their downfall was the result of an investigation by Lt. Warren F. Eaton and Sgt. Arthur J. O'Leary of the State police.

But the State police probe also has shown that more than a score of bootleg slaughterers, known in illicit meat circles as "moonlight scrapers," were killing livestock in quantity in Essex County, Bristol County, along Cape Cod and in the populous Greater Boston area, as well as in isolated sections farther westward.

They prefer isolated sections off the well-traveled roads, and once they obtain a suitable shack or small barn, they move in their slaughtering equipment and go to work.

The idea is to reap as much profit as possible without worrying about the possibility of infected meat eventually reaching consumers.

The primitive conditions and the haste accompanying the illegal butchering precludes any possibility of refrigeration of the slaughtered meat, which hangs in cubbyholes until a purchaser picks up his allotment.

In most of the places, the lean-tos have been hastily constructed so that patrons of the bootleg slaughterers can drive their cars in under cover and transfer the illegally-killed meat directly from the slaughter house into their machines.

As many as 50 medium size crates, to be used for packing the butchered meat, were found in one place raided by State police investigators.

Not all the meat is disposed of by direct slaughterhouse sales although many wholesale as well as retail purchasers make their way to the places for supplies of the carelessly slaughtered beef and pork.

There also is evidence that the slaughterers or their aides have been transporting choice steaks or prepared hamburg to points even across the state line and receiving as high as $1 a pound for the meat in black market transactions.

It is bad enough that bureaucratic bungling could permit such a growth of illegal slaughtering but it is worse that this type of bootlegging fosists bad or infected meat on unsuspecting consumers.

Analysis of some of the seized meat has proven that it is totally unfit for human consumption.

Henry L. Drury, of the State Health Department's livestock division, has described sanitary conditions at illegal slaughtering plants already raided as the worst he ever has seen.

After animals are killed, the carcasses are hung on hooks in the slaughtering plant and the waste removed to be scattered on floors wet and slippery with animal blood—an open invitation to disease germs.

After a slaughtering job, the bootleggers clean up the refuse and take it out to dispose of it. As many as 21 heads of slaughtered cattle were found across the State line in New Hampshire, apparently dumped from an Essex County bootleg plant.

Also under investigation is the apparent use of faked government and state stamps on the illegally-killed meat to give it the appearance of legitimacy in its ultimate sale to consumers.

Another probe is being made of reports that mobile calving squadrons are being used by bootleg slaughterers.

All these squadrons are reported to need is five hours' notice and they'll move out, anywhere in the state, and pick up as many as 20 head, which will find their way back to the illicit slaughtering plant to provide fresh-killed veal for the bootleg market.

State police investigation of the Attleboro plants showed that one of them between November and April sold 89 cattle skins, and 54 calfskins, to a rendering plant.

There is no possibility of figuring how many hogs were killed illegally as there is no way of checking on disposal of hog carcasses.

The probe showed that both retail and wholesale customers patronized the bootlegger and one customer was found who admitted paying $2.60 for three pounds of the illicit beef.

But, while bootleg slaughtering is increasing in the State, it is interesting to note that the State Police, ordered on the investigation 26 days ago by Comr. Stokes, have dug up enough evidence to convict three illegal slaughterers and are on the trail of others.

THE RED DELUGE OF PROPAGANDA

ATTORNEY GENERAL BIDDLE belatedly put the spotlight of official attention on the furtive and illegal nature of Communist propaganda when he said in a report to Congress respecting the enforcement of the Foreign Agents Registration Act

"The Soviet Union does not maintain an official information agency in this country, but CONDUCTS PARALLEL ACTIVITIES BY OTHER MEANS in large part NOT SUBJECT TO THE ACT."

Everyone should know that this country is being drenched with foreign propaganda.

The Attorney General required 560 printed pages to inform Congress about the activities of OTHER COUNTRIES THAN RUSSIA.

He disclosed that 508 "statements" have been filed with the Department of State by 227 organizations and 281 individuals under the Foreign Agents Act, that 322 of them are confessed propaganists, and that expenditures by these propagandists to "influence" American public opinion aggregate many millions of dollars annually.

Only FIFTEEN of the agencies out of the HUNDREDS legally accredited spent $2,373,000 in 1942 and $5,369,000 in 1944.

At least EIGHTEEN FOREIGN COUNTRIES are engaged in propaganda work here through OFFICIAL information centers.

According to the Attorney General, every "major nation" EXCEPT ONE now conducts its propaganda through registered offices, as our laws demand."

"An exception to this trend," Mr. Biddle said, "is the case of THE SOVIET UNION."

THE POSITIVE FACT is that the Soviet Union's propaganda in the United States, carried on in evasion or in defiance of our laws, VASTLY EXCEEDS THE PROPAGANDA OF ALL OTHER ALIEN INTERESTS COMBINED.

The reason for this is of course that the Soviet Union, with its Communist International, is the ONLY foreign nation that SEEKS TO FOMENT REVOLUTION IN THE UNITED STATES and TO CHANGE OUR FORM OF FREE GOVERNMENT.

And the avenues and channels of the Red propaganda are generally known.

The Communist Party—or Communist Political Association—in this country is the core of a wide network of Communist propaganda.

The party has the "Daily Worker" and a cluster of publications circulating under second-class mail privileges.

It has its numerous "fellow traveler" or friendly groups, including the "League of American Writers," the Young Communist League (now under a "Youth Movement" banner), and the Council of Soviet-American Friendship.

It has American subsidaries or affiliates of Soviet Russian agencies, such as the American Society for Cultural Relations with Russia, which operates in college faculties and among the "intellectuals," which is itself a kind of American branch of "Voks," in Moscow, and which conducts in New York City, as a national propaganda office, the "Russian-American Institute" with financial support from certain heavily financed American "foundations."

It has a ramification of organizations subordinate to or sympathetic with the Communist movement, like the International Workers' Order, the International Labor Defense and the International Juridical Association.

SO WHY should Soviet Russia register according to our laws, or record its activities and financial expenditures here, when so many American individuals and agencies are helpful?

Come home, sweetheart!
Come to the hearts that love thee,
To the eyes that beam in brightness
But to gladden thine.
It is not home without thee.
In every echo of returning feet,
In vain we listen for what should herald thee,
Sweetheart, come home!

IN BURMA, troops of the 36th British Division had a "baby show." A number of proud papas in the outfit exhibited snapshots of their babies. Three judges examined these snapshots and then awarded the prize to 3-year-old Timothy Andrews of Sussex, England. The prize went not to Timothy however, but to his proud papa. It was a safety razor. Some of the men in our armed forces should give that "baby show" via snapshots a trial. How about it, soldier, do you think you have the winner?

EXPERIENCE: A bride at 13, a mother at 15, a divorcee at 16 and married for the second time at 16. That is the matrimonial record of a Californian. At 32 she was a widow. Then she married a man 10 years younger and their married life has lasted 27 years thus far. This woman with so much matrimonial experience says a good way to get along with a man is not to ask him too many questions when he comes home a little late. She claims the query "Well, where have YOU been?" is dynamite and starts arguments of the kind that lead to the divorce courts.

MENU CARDS: In London there is a museum of menu cards. This is said to be the largest collection of menu cards in the world. I know a fellow in Santa Monica who has been collecting menu cards for 25 years. A very interesting collection. What menu card in your memory had the most and widest variety of items on it? That of the celebrated Smith & McNeil's restaurant in Washington market, New York, is the largest I remember.

PASSING BY: Lena Horne, Songstress. She is to be starred in a Broadway musical titled "St. Louis Woman." That should be good . . . Edmund Lowe, veteran thespian, has been on the stage 34 years but still looks like a young fellow. Eddie once played ball for Santa Clara University. I believe one of his college teammates was Harry Hooper, later a famous Red Sox star. You can't call yourself a Boston young old-timer if you don't remember the Red Sox outfield of Speaker, Hooper and Lewis.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Can your Mules & Men experts tell me how to cure a husband who never remembers the wedding anniversary? A—One suggested solution of this problem is for the wife on the morning of the anniversary to say to her husband: "Darling, I am giving a little party tonight. Be home early." The husband will say: "What's the party for?" The wife must then say in very frigid tones: "Our wedding anniversary." This incident may cure the old boy. Even if it doesn't it will remind him to bring home the wedding anniversary present. Such is the claim of our M & M experts.

DIVORCEES: Six young women of Chicago, separated from their husbands by divorce, have written in to say they do not like the term "divorcee." They resent being put in the "gay divorcee" class. Right now I can't think of another word for "divorcee." But tonight instead of working on my racing system I shall try to think of something.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, June 20—I desire to assure the Office of Defense Transportation that I intend to co-operate heartily in the matter of keeping off the trains this summer because, not to make a patriotic virtue of this decision, the going is just too tough nowadays.

Westbrook Pegler

I may have to take a couple of hops to Washington but no fair person would call that run a pleasure trip.

The journey itself is a monotonous grind after the first few hundred times and about all I do is tear over those magnificent distances, pretty much of the mileage on foot, trying to see people who have just moved to another set of offices just around the corner from where I was when I started out to call on them.

The heat is awful there now. Locals who home there and can't get away have taken such a beating from dear old friends whom they hardly knew by sight back in the old hometown that they tip-toe around their quarters behind drawn shades and black-out the lights at night, and have adopted a habit of saying, when they answer the phone, "Yes, this is Sassafras 3709 but this is O'Brien's Garage. No Spelvin lives here."

★ ★ ★

THE RAILROAD men have done a wonderful job pushing the traffic along in this war and I have to admire their courage in sticking to the road because some of the old conductors have told me very frankly that the equipment is just hanging together and some of the new talent simply can't appreciate the importance of the rules of safety.

I happen to know a couple of railroad presidents, too, whose last thought as they drop off at night is a dread that the phone will ring and the office will say that the big train has piled into a freight or hit a curve a little too fast somewhere and tumbled down a mountain.

This happens often nowadays and the fine old record of safety in railroad travel is just a memory and a standard to strive for after the war when there will be new cars and plenty of men to work over them and fix up spongy places in the road-beds.

Up to now not many of our people have taken seriously the exhortations from Washington, to stay off the railroads and give the service men and, for that matter, the country a break.

Or, anyway, those who did take them seriously have been heavily outnumbered by the thousands who didn't.

A great many of these civilian passengers have been relatives of service men going to visit them in camp or going to the seaboard in the hope of seeing them off or greeting them on their return.

Some of the traffic to the coastal areas has consisted of relatives hurrying to the hospitals.

★ ★ ★

SOME BUSINESS MEN simply have to keep going, such as some I know whose jobs are divided between Chicago and New York and Washington. Their life is hard these days because they can't be sure whether they are going to get Pullman accommodations, and a man who is working hard and has to spend two nights a week clattering across the country can't be blamed for wanting a little room so that he doesn't have to stand on the back of his neck in the morning to pull his pants on and wait in line to take off the whiskers.

The meals are poor, the air conditioning goes haywire causing an almost suffocating atmosphere and they are groggy two days a week after their travels.

I THINK one reason why people thought it didn't mean them, personally, when Washington asked them to have a heart for the servicemen and their families, was that we got a very bad example from some prominent individuals who also thought it didn't mean them.

These people were on the go constantly and then we would read of big union officials tripping to Miami and New Orleans for discussions that could have been conducted by phone and out to San Francisco for the peace conference which was no more their business than it was the business of the Elks or the retail druggist and say to ourselves that if this travel was necessary so was ours.

But I assure the O. D. T. that I will not press my right to stand in a red-hot train corridor for a hundred miles to catch a sorry meal dumped on the table by an overworked and exhausted waiter or to cling to the furniture as some dashing jockey up front does his best to straighten out a curve. I will waive.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 20—I swear this is the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help me. Wherever Mike Curtiz goes, when his contract is up with Warners, or if he remains at his alma mater, he will make "The Life of Edgar Bergen."

The fantastic life story of Bergen, whose sensational rise to fame with a dummy on his knee (pardon me, Charlie McCarthy), has made history, will all be put on the screen. Edgar has been out to the Curtiz ranch many times discussing his story.

Edgar Bergen

And now about Mike's plans. I have a bunch he'll remain with Warners. I am told that Jack Warner has offered him a percentage deal that tops all the others. Mike has things pretty much his way at Warners, so I believe he'll stay there.

* * *

HERE'S THE MOST cheerful news for the fans of Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy that I've heard in many a day. There's a very hot deal on at this moment for them to be reunited in an RKO musical. Charlie Koerner has given them the script of "East Wind," a Broadway show of 1932 produced by Larry Schwab from the book of Oscar Hammerstein. Hammerstein's shows are hotter than baked potatoes with the movies right now, but if you ask me—the wild-eyed MacDonald-Eddy fans would welcome them back in anything - including a musical written by me—and I can't even whistle!

* * *

NOT SINCE Lew Cody stole all the girls' hearts as a villain have we had a meany who has been as popular with the ladies as Zachary Scott who is a cruel, cruel gent both in "The Mask of Dimitrios" and in "Mildred Pearce." Apparently Warners is going to keep him on, getting meaner and meaner right along, for in his next, "Dancing with Tears," he is again the man you love to hate, with Janice Page as the girl who loves him in spite of his ornery moments.

MRS. PAUL LUKAS has just received word, the first in three years, from her older brother in Hungary. He wrote and told her that his little daughter Daisy, named for her—a child just 11 years old, was killed by the Germans the last day of occupation. Mrs. Lukas' younger brother is with the American Army. He came to Hollywood with their mother—but the older brother was never able to get away from Budapest. She says her mother has worried herself sick over the fate of the older boy, so it is a relief to hear that he is alive although they are grief-stricken over the death of the little girl. President Benes of Czechoslovakia is an uncle of Daisy, whose maiden name was Benes.

HERE COMES Ohio in the contest between the states as to which has produced the most movie stars. (We asked for it —and we're getting it.) Ohio proudly trots out such candidates as Eleanor Parker and the Gish sisters among the leaders, but really goes to town on glamor boys. Count 'em—Clark Gable, Bob Hope, Adolphe Menjou, Tyrone Power, John Howard, Warner Baxter, Lee Bowman, Alan Baxter, Burgess Meredith and Joe E. Brown. That's very good, if you ask me. Any more?

* * *

DARRYL ZANUCK, following his talk with President Truman, will stay overseas much longer than he originally intended because it is no longer a secret that he has an important job to do as a special consultant to the State Department. How I hear the group of producers from Hollywood somewhere in Germany and take the town over as for a repair to our government, which will be high over Lab mind.

* * *

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Ingrid Bergman has a very bad sore throat in New York and unless she gets better she will not be permitted to go overseas. I know what a heartbreak that will be: Dickie Jones, former child star and now a paratrooper, is marrying Betty Bacon, Los Angeles debutante; Ann Dvorak's frequent get togethers with Leslie Fenton do not mean a reconciliation. They're talking a property settlement; J. Darsie Lloyd, Harold's father, will be 81 on Sunday and Mrs. Lloyd is giving him a dinner to which all his pals are invited. Ann Sothern and Lt. Robert Sterling are spending his 15-day leave at Pebble Beach. Lana Turner had to wait a whole week before Turhan Bey could telephone her from Camp Roberts, but when he did they talked and talked and talked. Bebe Daniels and Col. Ben Lyon greeted many of the old friends at the dinner given in their honor by the Eddie Sutherlands. Ronald and Benita Colman left immediately after for their ranch near Santa Barbara. Their daughter will spend her 1st birthday there.

* * *

ROSALIND RUSSELL told me that she had just had word that Maj. Fred Brisson is now in Paris. She said he had wired to go overseas at once. Lauren Bacall is also with Robert Walker who is down with the flu. Lt. Col. Earl Marshall (Lt. A. Hyde Lederer) Danny and many others lobbied to the Pearl class stages both Bebe and Ben had to tell Mrs. Howard Pyle, wife of Ed Pyle's son, well wishes. Ben Cohen has returned after she gets Las Vegas-ed. She is there now. Betty Bruce is and his bride gave a dinner for his mother-in-law at Las Vegas. She came all the way from New York to meet him before Bob Hope left town he and Mrs. H. took in the show at Slapsy Maxie's. Buy bonds at your favorite motion picture theater. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, June 20— A very determined-looking matron invaded the office of Sen. Frank Park Briggs of Missouri the other day and announced she had come to demand a favor.

Sen. Briggs

The lady said she represented a huge organization of women in Missouri. In fact, she strove to give the impression that any Missouri woman not in her organization didn't amount to much.

We want you to do something for us," she said, and went on to describe the favor requested.

Senator Briggs said he did not know whether he would perform it or not, whereupon the lady became highly incensed.

"I might point out," she snapped, "that you owe it to us. In fact, you owe everything to us. I was our organization that got you elected."

"That's news!" exclaimed Senator Briggs. "I hadn't known it before. Are you sure?"

"I most decidedly am," said the woman. "We all voted for you. Not only that, but we campaigned for you day and night. You wouldn't have stood a show but for us."

SENATOR BRIGGS waited patiently for her to finish, then said:

"Now I want to be absolutely certain. Would you mind going over all this again, describing just how and where you campaigned and how you all voted for me?"

The lady repeated it in detail, making it even more forcible the second telling. Then Senator Briggs, his face straight deadpan, said:

"There is only one flaw in your record that I can detect. I wasn't elected. I was appointed."

★ ★ ★

SENATOR BRIGGS was appointed to the Senate on Jan. 18, 1945, by the Governor of Missouri to fill the unexpired term of another senator from Missouri who resigned.

The latter quit because he had a better job. He became Vice-President and subsequently President. His name is Truman.

PROHIBITIONISTS, who are hard at it all the time, have now started working on the Department of Agriculture. The burden of their yelp is that the distillers of the soul-destroying stuff known as whisky plan to use millions of pounds of scarce sugar in the forthcoming July liquor-making "holiday."

The disturbing part of it is that the Department of Agriculture has given heedful ear to the "don't-let-'em-use-our-precious-sugar-to-make-that-awful-stuff" yelps.

For the benefit of the great scientists in the Department of Agriculture, I would like to point out that not one single ounce of sugar is ever used by any registered distiller in making whisky.

THE MOONSHINERS down in the hills maybe use sugar and prune juice and anything sweet they can get, but the registered distiller never. Whisky, kiddies, is a distillate of grain.

REP. PAUL W. SHAFER of Michigan has won his deadly pillow fight with OPA.

OPA recently sent out an order that all retailers of feather and down pillows must send one pillow of each grade they had in stock on June 27 to the OPA's Durable Goods Branch here. It explained this was necessary to determine the proper price to be charged for each pillow.

Representative Shafer bellowed that, if the country's 22,000 retail pillow dealers did this, we'd have to build another Pentagon Building to store the pillows.

Well—the OPA has given in. It sent out an amendment to the order the other day that it would not be necessary to send the actual pillows—just a description of same!

★ ★ ★

THE AMENDMENT was set forth in an official release distributed by OWI. And who do you think wrote the OWI release?

Eddyth Sheets!

★ ★ ★

INCIDENTALLY, just about the time the release was given out, Mr. Shafer received a letter from Chester Bowles, OPA head, in which Mr. Bowles defended himself against the Congressman's anti-pillow cracks. Mr. Bowles said it was necessary to have the pillows inspected.

It seemed pretty obvious from the letter that he was not aware of the amendment to keep pillows out of Washington.

★ ★ ★

MR. SHAFER, who is not above rubbing it in, wrote a reply to Mr. Bowles, in which he said that the pillow business seemed to be getting Mr. Bowles' goat.

"I am sorry you are so thin-skinned as to be perturbed over what I said," he wrote. "If you really want to get toughened up you should go out to my district and hear what the people there are saying about you!"

It would be wonderful to be the head of OPA. You hear from so many interesting people.

THE OBJECTIVE of both these groups of imported connivers is the collective mind of the homecoming service man . . . They have outlets in every possible medium of communication, and puh-lenty of money . . . Recently, a combination of the two "parties" (and they are not as hostile as their members would have you believe) bought one of the best-known conservative newspapers in Dixie.

THE NEXT PROPAGANDA maneuver on tap throughout the nation is a crusade against so-called "red baiters" . . . Listen for it on your radio, and read between the lines of some of the syndicated features . . . And don't be fooled, as you may have been when the Comrats were trumpeting against this "Imperial War" with their slogan "The Yanks Are NOT Coming!" . . . That, if you recall, was prior to June 22, 1941, when Adolf Hitler broke his pact with Russia and sent his tanks rolling across the border.

THAT WAS WHEN strikes tied up huge airplane factories and automobile plants . . . That was when the traitors—pretending to be sincere Americans—were concerned heart and soul only with the fate of Soviet Russia. (As they now are and always will be while they are permitted to walk the streets of America and as long as the makeup of this present never unanimous Supreme Court (the "Five to Three or Four Boys," as Washington calls it) retains its current membership.

Fashion

SUMMER hostessing can be lots of fun . . . especially in a youthful, dress-up gown such as this one . . .a robe of sheer rayon crepe in tiny red-and-white polka dots . . . that fits the figure snugly and charmingly. The cardigan neckline . . . piped in matching red . . . and the high-waisted feeling are new notes in hostess robe designing . . . and brought into smart play by designer Tula who created this youthful beauty.—R. Shrimp Salad

By MARTHA LEE

EVEN IN PRE-WAR DAYS, shrimp were considered a delightful summertime food, for their versatility, their gay color, their tangy flavor. Today, with the meat supply as it is, shrimp are more popular than ever as a substantial protein food for appetizing meals. There are dozens of ways in which shrimp may be used, either fresh or canned, to open up new adventures in eating. When their crescent shapes turn up in rice, on rusks, in noodle rings, in salads or in casseroles, it's a dinner that's remembered.

Now that the salad season is here again, a big, colorful salad starring canned shrimp makes a fine dish for any meal. This modern way of serving shrimp guarantees plenty of nutrition in every dish, for in addition to its important protein content, canned shrimp contains 18 needed minerals and an abundance of vitamins A and D.

Following are suggestions for serving this favorite seafood:

SHRIMP SALAD

1 7 oz. can shrimp
1 cup cottage cheese
Salt and pepper
1 cup chopped celery
1 bunch scallions
Lettuce Paprika
Chicory French dressing

Chill shrimp in can. Season cottage cheese with salt and pepper. Open shrimp; drain. Combine shrimp and celery. Cut off scallion tops; chop ¼ cup and add to shrimp. Arrange lettuce in center of oval salad platter or bowl; top with shrimp mixture. On one side of shrimp arrange bed of chicory; top with balls of cottage cheese; sprinkle with paprika. On other side arrange scallions. Serve with French dressing. Makes 4 servings.

CHEESE SHRIMP CASSEROLE

1 7-oz. can shrimp
3 cups cooked spaghetti
2 tbsp. butter or margarine
1 cup milk; salt and pepper
3 tbsp. flour; few grains paprika

Shrimp Salad

½ cup grated sharp cheese
½ cup fine crumbs

Drain shrimp, reserving liquid. Arrange spaghetti in layer in greased baking casserole or individual ramekins. Top with layer of shrimp. Melt butter or margarine; blend in flour. Gradually add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Season with salt, pepper and paprika. Pour sauce over shrimp. Mix cheese and crumbs; sprinkle on top sauce. Bake in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.) about 20 minutes, or until well browned. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CURRY-CREAMED SHRIMP

2 cups curry sauce
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. chopped parsley (optional)
2 tbsp. chopped pimiento (optional); 2 7-oz. cans shrimp

Combine all ingredients and heat. Stir gently to avoid mashing shrimp. Serve with toast, cooked rice or spaghetti or in patty shells or on rusks. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

CURRY SAUCE

¼ tbsp. butter or margarine
¼ tbsp. flour; 1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
½ to 1 tsp. curry powder
2 cups milk

Melt butter over low heat; add flour, salt, pepper and curry powder; stir until well blended. Remove from heat. Gradually stir in milk and return to heat. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Makes 2 cups.

Beauty

Tan for Stockingless

By RUTH MUGGLEEEE

Beauty and Fashion Editor

SMALL WONDER that a jury of nationally known artists and sculptors judged Columbia Star Ann Miller one of America's 10 most glamorous women. Wouldn't you? In a business in which beauty is commonplace . . . she's a standout because of her intriguing loveliness and refreshing personality . . . to say nothing of her dancing legs which rate stardom in any language. Let an unusual and new stocking stick bring cool glamour to your limbs this season.

WE LIKE COSMETICS that have a different twist . . . that get away from the cut-and dry path of ordinary procedure. And, when such beauty aid comes up . . . and does a par excellence job of what it is supposed to do . . . we like to give it a few extra gold stars and be a bit more lavish in our praise.

Such a meritorious article is a revolutionary new leg make-up . . . a stocking stick perfected after long research . . . a handy clump of solid color that fires the artist in you . . . and which from all we can gather plus our own personal experience . . . is just about the answer to the stockingless gal . . . who craves legs of tan. Here is a leg make-up in solid form. No bottles to break . . . no make-up to spill . . . no bathroom floors to spot and dot . . . a truly wonderful little gadget to toss into the week-end bag with the confident knowledge that you'll find it intact at the conclusion of your trip . . . and upon arrival at your destination.

We've been using it for the past few days . . . it just came out . . . and to have you me, we had a lovely water-resistant leg dressing in a few seconds . . . as flattering as the nylons we fondly remember . . . and as smooth as silk. We have great fondness for several leg make-ups. This year there is marked improvement in the quality and lasting texture of leg makeup. And so we make it a point to alternate . . . in much the same way as we select different hosiery shades in winter months to effect the most flattering result for the costume.

AMAZING SIMPLICITY

It is lots more fun having several leg makeup shades . . . each blending into the color scheme of the moment. But to get back to this startling stocking stick . . . and its really amazing simplicity that's so productive of such beautiful leg camouflage. It offers a great break in the cosmetic budget . . . since it costs, tax included less than half a dollar. Unbelievable, isn't it?

You would never dream that leg dressing could be so easy to apply and look so utterly divine. First you wet one leg from ankle to above-knee with a well-saturated wash cloth . . . or with wet hands. Then make a few strokes on the front, back and sides of the leg with this stocking stick . . . it comes in two exquisite shades . . . and then blend the color over the entire surface. Your legs will be ready for any show . . . and this season . . . they are showing a lot.

For the name of this revolutionary new leg makeup in solid stick form, phone the Beauty Dept. LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Tuesday—Friday I paid a visit to Unity House in Pennsylvania, a vacation place for the members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union. I went to see the camp, but primarily to talk in the Pike County bond campaign for the Seventh War Fund drive.

Like all the other activities undertaken by this group, the camp is well planned and gives an opportunity for healthful recreation under excellent conditions at minimum cost.

Today I went out to Orange, New Jersey, to lunch with my cousin, Mrs. Henry Parish, on her birthday.

* * *

I WAS HAPPY to receive a report from Dan West, which you may have seen in the papers. The United National Clothing Collection, under Henry J. Kaiser, has evidently done remarkably well. The report from 7200 local chairmen and committees says 150,303,965 pounds of clothing were collected up to June 13.

This means that millions of citizens in every walk of life gave some of their clothing, and that tens of thousands of volunteers collected, sorted and packed the garments.

The only reward which will come to any of those who have given so much in material and in time is the knowledge that millions of war victims will be clothed during the coming months. It has been emphasized right along that the shipping of this material depends, of course, on the general allocation of priorities.

Food and necessary farm implements and other equipment may have to go first; but before the winter I hope that in all of the liberated countries of Europe these garments will be saving men and women and children from great suffering.

Soap and Water Fabrics

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THIS is the soap and water season, and as usual, our styles have a lot of dresses and such garments ready for it. Clothes that can be washed and still retain their original glory are not so easy to find this year because of the wartime drain on fabrics, but you can get them if you insist. These are tested rayons, cottons and ginghams that can take the soap and water treatment all summer without loss of chic.

One such is the dress that Miss Dulin has sketched. This is a David Crystal model and is made of Crown tested fabric in a soft shade of cocoa beige. The fly front rises to a very pretty wedge-shaped neckline and at the left side of it is a frosty white embroidered design.

Release of Doctors From Army Sought

WASHINGTON, June 20 — A special and speedy discharge system for Army medical officers whose services in Europe or at Army camps in the United States are no longer necessary, today was urged by Sen Hugh Mitchell (D.) of Washington.

Mitchell charged that critical shortages of physicians in scores of American communities is jeopardizing civilian health.

Salvage Pickup In Wards 11 to 14

Collections in the first 10 wards of the city in Boston's big three-way salvage drive yielded 382,910 pounds of waste paper, 54,600 pounds of tin and 5200 pounds of old rags, the salvage committee announced today. The same wards last month produced 373,100 pounds of paper and 56,600 pounds of tin.

The collection of old rags, the first by the Boston Salvage Committee, is at the urgent request of the War Production Board. The rags will be turned over to military and naval forces for wiping cloths.

The drive continued today in Wards 11 and 12 of Roxbury, and 13 and 14 in Dorchester. Tomorrow the trucks will canvass Wards 15 to 18, and on Friday, Wards 19 to 22.

A drawing will be held today to determine the winners of the $25 war bonds offered to waste paper donors in the first day of the drive. One bond will be awarded in each ward.

Mrs. McClellan and Six Kids Get Old Heave-O

By AUSTEN LAKE

TODAY'S LITTLE LEGAL GEM is the eviction of Mrs. Cecelia McClellan, mother of six small kids and wife of a Navy machinist's mate now deep in the heart of the Pacific. Let me say before you do that a man with six small kids has no business being deep in the heart of the Pacific. But there he is! And here is Mrs. Mack about to get the old Heave-O on July 1 from her Chelsea tenement at 16 Lash st. Why? Because the new landlord wants her out so he can rebuild. Technical law is on his side! But human decency IS NOT!

Austen Lake

The court eviction order, already processed, reads, "For non-payment of rents." But don't swallow that hokum! It's just one of those legal booby traps for which jurisprudence is noted. Actually Mrs. Mack had the rent money on time (April 2) but the landlord also had a receipt ready with a scram-notice written on its back. She saw it, and with that whimsy peculiar to inexperienced females, held up payment because she wanted to force reconsideration. And that was where she fell into the chump trap. Her rent was in arrears! And that's an eviction offense! So the landlord gleefully hightailed to court!

Sure, everything was legally sanitary. The landlord's lawyer filed the required ouster application with the local OPA office, which noted the "non-payment" clause and automatically initialled it "OK for action." And the lady, who like most of her sex knew nothing about such shenanigans, was in the tar barrel.

She Was Ten Minutes Late!

BUT HOW IS IT, YOU ASK, that the court didn't weigh the evidence and balance his scales between justice and mercy? Why didn't it say "Harrumph! Here obviously is a distracted woman with six small kids and a husband on combat duty. Maybe the pure technicalities of law call for eviction. But human decency does not. Petition dismissed."

No doubt the court would have done just that! Except that Mrs. Mack couldn't locate her mother's helper on time and didn't dare to leave the snuffles of two croupy kids. So she was 10 minutes late. Neither did she have any spare dollars from her monthly allotment check to buy counsel to stand in for her. So she was late and the court, immersed to its ears in the day's docket, heard the one-sided story and scrawled "granted by default" on the margin. The case, so to speak, was sealed with a kiss.

So, before bowing out of the case the next day, the landlord's attorney passed the ball to the local constable who slipped it to a trucking company which dispatched a van with two muscular heavers to haul out Mrs. Mack's furniture. Haul it where? Oh, just OUT! But the two brawny bozos happened to have humanitarian corners in their hearts. So they took a quick gander at the situation, including the six kids, growled a couple of indignant "Jeepers" and barrelled t'ell outa there without touching a stick. They didn't want any part of that job.

So then Mrs. Mack wangled a few extra weeks of grace by paying advance rent through the constable up to July 1, but not until she was forced to sign a cute little paper reading that such payment "shall not be construed as a waiver of the ejectment execution No. 308 issued by the district court May 15, 1945." Which is how one establishes that it was not Mrs. Mack's rent the landlord was after.

So Mrs. Mack started scrambling around for a place for her six kids to live. She looked as far south as Providence and as far north as Nashua, N. H. But she couldn't find a domicile sized to her dimensional needs, or in fact any domicile at all. And that's where she is now—except that she has also contracted ulcers in her eyes.

Blueprint for Service Wives

I CITE THIS CASE AS A BLUE-PRINT for other service wives who are ignorant of the proper agencies to protect their rights. For Mrs. Mack, like most service women, has no money for legal counsel. She didn't know the functions of the OPA Rental Division, or of the Navy Relief, or of court procedure. In company with most of her housewifely sex when faced with legal technicalities she was as far at sea as her sailor spouse. And he's somewhere near Okinawa.

The law is primarily framed to protect little people. But the law is also pretty fuzzy in its definitions and is subject to being stretched this way and that by sharp practitioners. F'rinstance, take the footnote to the existing rental statute which permits a purchaser of a residence to evict a tenant by simply stating that he, the purchaser, intends to occupy said property as his own abode.

He may even go through the formality of moving a few hunks of furniture into the house to establish occupancy and then go off to the beach for a few days. He may sleep in it overnight. Then, awfully, if he wishes, he can move out and rent the joint to whomever he pleases. It's being done! Fake property sales are a familiar dodge these days.

Of course, the evictee might watch the new landlord's movements and show the OPA that his intentions were not sincere. But by that time the ex-tenant has probably moved elsewhere or has solved to some degree his own problem. It's too late! And that's what I mean by a fuzzy law.

So Mrs. Mack has not had her day in court, as is provided in our Bill of Rights. She's out on a limb. And I wonder what Machinist's Mate 3d Class James McClellan will think these sultry, menaceful days while riding around in Japan's watery front yard, when he hears that his family has been given a fast dust-off. Maybe he'll pucker up his sun-burned puss and puzzle over what it is he's fighting for on t'uther side of the world and whether such grandiose terms as "brotherhood of nations" and "a world fellowship" have any more concrete idealism than the simple security of his own home hearth and kids and tolerance from his own home neighbors. Don't you think Machinist's Mate James has a solid reason to get dam sore? I do!

20 More Dog Dates Seen

Taunton and Raynham dog tracks may get an additional 20 days of racing, with the profits going to charity, it was revealed today at a hearing before the Massachusetts Racing Commission. Dog owners, trainers and breeders appeared at the hearing to protest the cut in racing dates at these two tracks from 100, as allowed by law, to 50, as recently directed by the commission.

Their attorney and spokesman, Talbot T. Tweedy, State Representative from Taunton, told the racing board the new ruling was interfering with the future of greyhound racing in Massachusetts.

"We have always had top racing. There because these men who own the best breeding farms and kennels in the country felt it worth while to bring their dogs here. Under the new ruling they cannot do so and five kennels have already departed. This means that Massachusetts is going to get inferior dogs and very bad conditions in racing."

Bayard Tuckerman of the racing board disclosed that additional racing dates may be granted for various charities. Harold R. Allen, another board member, added that he favored granting such dates to veterans' organizations which could use money for the rehabilitation of discharged veterans. Both said ten days for each track might be granted, making a total of 20 days.

F. B. "Happy" Stutz, the owners' chairman, stressed that the owners did not care what happened to the money if they were only given a chance to keep up Massachusetts dog racing at its present high level. He cited instances of owners who had already notified the tracks they would like to be released from their local contracts, and take their dogs to other states where the tracks are now getting only their second string dogs.

Louis H. Hoffman, racing commissioner, said, however, that no profit would be granted to the tracks on the charity dates.

It is the first time that dog owners and trainers have banded together in an organization, and they were complimented on their move by Tuckerman who advised them to ask for bigger purses, as he said the amount set aside for these men who do the actual work was "ridiculously small when compared with what the State takes and the track promoters get."

(Other dog date story on Page 23)

Cantor-Goodman to Top Garden 'Bataan' Show

By JACK CONWAY

ONE OF THE MOST brilliant exploits of the war in the Far East was the raid by American Rangers on a Jap prison camp and the liberation of hundreds of Allied war prisoners who included in their number many Americans. The detailed story of the liberation of the undernourished war prisoners, some of whom had been subjected to numerous cruelties at the hands of their fanatical captors, will go down in American history as one of daring, resourcefulness and courage.

"Back to Bataan," a moving picture that opens at the RKO on next Monday, will give the graphic story of the Rangers and the numerous acts of heroism on the part of Americans and Filipinos from the days of the "Death March" to when Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his troops returned victoriously to the Philippines.

Eddie Cantor

Eddie Cantor, radio and screen star, John Wayne, Ellen Drew, Benny Goodman and his band, Jesse L. Lasky and the leading entertainers from Boston night clubs will introduce the "Back to Bataan" show by a great offering of entertainment at the Boston Garden on Sunday night.

The show headed by Eddie Cantor and Benny Goodman will compare favorably with the Bob Hope show that sold out the Garden earlier in the year.

Like the Hope show, it is for a service charity. All of the money raised at the Cantor-Goodman offering will be given to a fund to build a fitting service center for the wives and mothers of servicemen. It is believed that a substantial sum of money will be derived from the Garden show.

★ ★ ★

Cantor's Radio Show

EDDIE CANTOR will act as master of ceremonies. He will also have his entire radio show on hand for the gala event. The Cantor radio stars include Nora Martin, Fred Martel, Leonard Sues and Bea Walker.

Benny Goodman's band has established a national reputation. On one occasion it showed in the Garden with Rudy Vallee's band in a show for the Christmas Basket Fund of the Hearst Boston newspapers. The Garden was a complete sellout. Goodman is a master of swing music and he has a tremendous following.

The committee in charge of the Garden show for Sunday night decided to stage this great offering at popular prices. If a promoter were obliged to pay for the great array of talent that will appear at the Garden, it would be necessary to charge top prices. Eddie Canter, Benny Goodman and the others on the program are giving their time and talent without compensation. They wish to help the service club and also pay a fitting tribute to the heroes of Bataan.

Revere Boxer at Bataan

WHEN I READ about Bataan, I always think of Samuel Rubinovitch, a Revere boxer, who was one of the gallant Americans who fought to the very last. The youthful punch slinger had won the light heavyweight championship of the Asiatic fleet before the Japs made their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor. He was with an air unit and fought at Bataan with great courage.

Rev. Fr. Dugan, S. J., met Rubinovitch at Prison Camp No. 1 in the Philippines. The Revere youth was keeping up the morale of his fellow prisoners by putting on boxing shows. Samuel was later removed to Japan along with some of the other heroes of Bataan.

Men who fought with the Revere youngster, whose dad, Young Happy Rubinovitch is associated with the circulation department of the Boston American, will be at the Garden on Sunday night. The Garden show will reach a new high in the matter of entertainment and in patriotic appeal.

"Back to Bataan."

America with Gen. MacArthur and the Rangers leading the way did not fail.

Braves Find Secret Of Jinx Over Giants

By BILL GRIMES

NEW YORK, June 20—Anytime he doesn't hit a ball out of the infield on four trips to the bat off Jim Tobin, there's something on Mel Ott's mind. So it must be his Giants, who have won only five decisions in their last 23 games.

Under ordinary circumstances, "Ottie" is mild and even tempered. But, for a month now, he has been jumpy and easily irritated. During the early weeks of the season, the Giants left the other contenders for the National League pennant at the post. But, the experts, who were trying to root in the Giants, failed to take into consideration that the Ottmen found three clubs they could beat, Boston, Cincinnati and Philadelphia. Of the 30 games in the Giants' win column no less than 17 came from the Braves Reds and Blue Jays.

The Braves are no longer "cousins" of the Giants, however. They have taken four straight from the Ottmen and as long as they get the pitching they'll continue to operate successfully on the New Yorkers. And, possibly, the Phillies have also resigned from the Giants' "cousin" list, for they took both ends of a double-header from Mel Ott's boys last Sunday.

During the last western trip, Bill Voiselle started to get smart. He had won seven straight, according to the records, although he had to have help from "Ace" Adams on a few occasions and didn't finish either game that he was credited with wins over the Braves.

Voiselle came up with a couple of new pitches, which didn't meet with Mel Ott's approval. Johnny Hopp rapped one of Voiselle's new serves for three bases in St. Louis and Mel Ott gave the big right hander a $500 "plaster." That fine wasn't because Voiselle gave Hopp a "soft" pitch, as the papers stated.

It was to make Voiselle go back to his winning style of pitching and stop experimenting. But, Voiselle cannot win. In fact, he seems to be completely at sea while he's on the mound. The Braves belted him for six hits in two innings yesterday and it's been weeks since he has been able to finish a game.

While the Giants were blowing both ends of a double-header to the Phillies last Sunday, Mel Ott and "Ace" Adams jammed. Ott is an appreciative manager. He knows how much of a help Adams has been to him and the Giants. So, Ott wouldn't have had any words with his ace relief pitcher, if he wasn't punchy from the failure of the Giants to snap out of their slump.

The Braves and Giants wind up this two-game series tonight, under the lights. Large Johnny Hutchings, who won his last two starts but didn't fare so well on two occasions as relief hurler, will start for the Colemen against Jack Brewer, who beat the Phillies last Saturday.

Dave Ferriss to Face Yankees Tomorrow

Dave Ferriss, great Red Sox rookie righthand pitcher, will face the Yankees at Fenway Park tomorrow in the single game arranged when today's double-header was rained out.

Tomorrow originally was an open date for both flag contending Yanks and Hose, so the banner attraction which would have attracted a huge midweek crowd today will not be lost.

Walter Dubiel is the probable choice of the New Yorkers to oppose Ferriss and a thrilling duel is probable, with both clubs fighting desperately to overtake the flying first place Tigers. The Tigers have a two-game margin on the second place Yankees, and the Red Sox are only a half game further back.

Ferriss, THE rookie of the year, who came out of the Army Air Corps unheralded to blaze his way to nine victories and only one defeat to lead the A. L. hurlers, has been idle since he beat the Senators in 14 innings last Friday night.

Well rested after that grind, Dave figures to be at his best tomorrow. He'll need to be, for the Yanks lost to the Red Sox, 1-0, yesterday, with little Clem Hausmann hurling a masterful game.

Off that defeat the McCarthys are burning up because some time ago they passed up Hausmann, who was a farm property of theirs, and they naturally hated to see their one time possession blank them so easily.

The Sox can move into second place by beating the Yanks tomorrow.

College Heads O. K. Athlete Aid

NEW ORLEANS, June 20 (AP)—Some form of aid for student athletes who show need and scholastic promise is favored by the nation's college presidents.

Responding to a carefully worded questionnaire from the American College Publicity Ass'n (ACPA), 85 of 131 schools answered "yes" to the question:

"Does your college president think that in cases of students who show need, scholastic and athletic promise some form of grant-in-aid is justifiable?"

The survey, covering every section of the country, was conducted by Horace Renegar of Tulane University, vice-president in charge of reasearch for ACPA.

Heads of 32 institutions said they thought such aid was not justifiable, while 15 declined to give an opinion and one said he was doubtful.

From the Midwest, sometimes critical of legalized aid to athletes, came a surprising 27 "yeas" against 13 negative votes.

The "Solid South" and Southwest were almost unanimous in indicating a belief that some form of aid is justifiable, only one negative vote being registered from 25 replies.

Ten Far West and Pacific Coast schools expressed their approval of helping athletes, while only four dissented.

Many of the presidents disagreed, however, to the extent of aid and the manner of its administration. The heads of several institutions said they opposed helping athletes unless furnished by someone outside of the college budget.

The head of one midwestern university commented:

"I hope the day will come when all schools use one system—one which is known to all—and to the public."

50 Racing Days For Revere

There will be only 50 days of dog racing at Wonderland Park, Revere, this year—a slash of one-half in 100 racing days allowed the track in 1944—it was revealed yesterday as the State Racing Commission announced dates for which licenses have been issued the Revere Racing Ass'n, Inc.

The dates are July 2 to August 18 and August 27 to September 4, inclusive, with Sundays excepted. The association had petitioned for 100 racing days.

The slash was in accordance with Gov. Tobin's recent recommendation that the number of racing days be halved because too much money was being gambled at the Revere track.

Rep. Frederick B. Willis, Saugus, speaker of the House, said last week that the reduction in the number of racing days would cost the State $2,000,000 in revenue used to finance old age assistance.

It was also brought out that the Federal Government will lose an estimated $3,000,000 in taxes and that organized charities which last year received donations up to $200,000 from the tracks will be cut off from this source of revenue.

The commission also granted racing dates to four state agricultural fairs, disclosing that Marshfield Fair was cut from six to five days, from Aug. 20 to Aug. 25 inclusive.

Topsfield Fair was granted its first horse racing license and given dates from Aug. 27 to Sept. 1. Northampton Fair, Sept. 3 to 8, and Brockton Fair, Sept. 10 to 15.

The state commission will conduct a hearing at 11 a. m. today at 294 Washington st. on the petition of greyhound owners who are seeking reconsideration of the commission's reduction on racing days.

Hal Crosby Club Tears Into Navy

Boiling over at the wins the fifth place Hicks Engineers slapped on them twice this week, the Hal Crosby Club of Roxbury will attempt to scuttle the Navy Yarders tonight at the Lee Playground in South Boston. Both the sailors and the Crosby's were rolling along in high until this week when each took the count and it looks as though tonight's battle will be one of vengeance for both clubs.

The Linehan Club and the Roxbury McCarthy Club will go at each other again tonight in a return engagement at the Ratch Playground in the South End and another interesting clash is in view between them, while the Roslindale Town Team and the Dick Casey Club will provide the Town Field, Dorchester, fans with the third game scheduled on tonight's Park League docket.

Ferriss Takes Grove's Locker

Bashful Boo Farriss, who is out after a broken No. 10 today in pitching victories, has finally got himself a locker of his own.

The Red Sox hurler is eligible for the one used by old Mose Grove during his eight seasons under Joe Cronin.

But Boo, who was quite willing to hang his war-won elvies on a nail when he joined the Boston club, can't look for miraculous properties in the new wardrobe; its last proprietor was Rex Cecil, now back on the Louisville farm.
